Planning for the 19th International Conference on Very Large Data Bases, VLDB 93, began in earnest in 1989, following VLDB 89 in Amsterdam. Running such a prestigious conference in a country like Ireland, which has a relatively small database community, is a challenging and exciting task. It would not have been achieved without the support and encouragement of many of our colleagues in the international database community. In particular, we would like to thank Janis Bubenko, Chairman of the VLDB Endowment and his predecessor, Alfonso Cardenas; Stanley Su, the Treasurer whose advice and support on financial matters was invaluable; Arie Shoshani and Shojiro Nishio, who respectively acted as US and Far Eastern Conference Chairs; and Peter Stocker, Endowment Representative for VLDB 93. We are also grateful to all the Regional Coordinators for distributing VLDB 93 brochures and for publicising the conference in their own geographical areas.

Rakesh Agrawal and David Bell have put together a scientific programme which carries on the fine tradition of high-quality papers for which VLDB is renowned. To Rakesh and David and all the members of the Programme Committee and the referees go my thanks. Mike Carey, supported locally by Alexis Donnelly, has arranged an excellent, topical tutorial programme which offers something for everyone. Maria Orlawska, with the local assistance of Alan Smeaton, has organized a series of panels which promises to be particularly stimulating.

Local organization of VLDB 93 was really a team effort, and thanks are due particularly to Jennifer Leech, Gill Gibbs, Dudley Dolan, Peter Morrow, Brendan Supple, Paul Holden, Alan Mullally, Seán Brady, Paul Holden, John Murphy, Peter Lawless, Rita McGuinness, John McEvoy, Ciaran McHale, Aoife Cox, Doris Alexander, Lucy Hederman, Padraig Cunningham, Jane Hinchy and Lee Guckian. I am particularly indebted to my colleague Seán Baker who has been involved right from the start with the planing of VLDB 93. Seán not only acted as Vice-Chair, but also served on the Programme Committee and as Editor of the Conference Proceedings. I am very grateful for the support and encouragement throughout of Prof. John Byrne, Head of the Department of Computer Science, Trinity College.

This is the first year that VLDB has included poster sessions, in which work in progress could be reported. I would like to thank John McPherson, John Cardiff, Rakesh Agrawal and David Bell for evaluating the poster submissions, and especially Ann Barry for co-ordinating the poster sessions.

The one person without whom VLDB 93 would really never have got off the ground, is Keith Jeffery. Keith's role was officially European Conference Chair but in practice he acted as advisor and mentor to the Organizing, Steering and Programme Committees. He regularly flew over to Dublin for meetings and he undoubtedly deserves the title of honorary Irishman!

Finally, we are most grateful for the generous support of our many sponsors and supporters, without whose financial assistance it would not have been possible to host VLDB 93 in Dublin.
